Daydream—Half asleep, Nick Cobb tries to look like he is working. He's really dreaming of a world made of Reese's Pieces and Mallo Cups. The monotony of school life is the root of his evil. The next step: world domination.

Stylin'—Placing a moon while decorating the senior hallway Orlando style, Brian Wardell is all set to bask in the warm sunshine. The dedication that was shown by the seniors paid off with a win in the hallway contest.

Life's little problems—Biting his tongue in a mental blank, Nathan Lenneman stares at the impossible and endless calculus problem he faces. Around the high school, calculus is known as "that really, really, really hard math class."
